Inspired by the book of the same title written by Carlos Bahos, the musical show Cuando colorín colorado no es un final represents a commitment to the performing arts as a means of transmitting present day values, such as gender equality, care for the environment and personal and emotional growth. The result is a colourful, entertaining, multidisciplinary proposal full of exciting songs that will delight the whole family.

The Association for Cultural and Theatrical Projects Trinidad27 was founded by different members of the Fernando Hurtado dance company in response to the artistic need to address different approaches for the production, coproduction, direction and consultancy requirements of all types of artistic and theatrical sectors. Cuando colorín colorado no es un final is their first show in coproduction with the Cía Fernando Hurtado.
