Maria loves the stories and adventures her grandfather tells her; she spends every afternoon with him playing Peter Pan. But one night, the Lost Children take her away to the Land of Never Again, and Tinkerbell, the pirates, the Indians and all the characters created by James Matthew Barne become part of her reality.
A story of now and always that focuses on the bond between grandparents and grandchildren. A show that stimulates the idea of never stopping to dream, because only those who dream learn to fly.
Festuc Teatre was founded in Lleida in 2003 to turn its founders' passion into a way of life. Their main objectives are that the audience enjoy the show, inviting spectators to reflect on the different values that are transmitted in their theatrical proposals and to try to assimilate in a positive manner the whirlwind of emotions present in each one.
