"Project based on experimentation, improvisation and linking instruments from different places. An exploration of timbre based on my own pieces, with jazz, Afro Cuban folklore, European classical music, electronics and poetic reflection as the subject matter of creative manifestations. An invitation to let one's senses fly while the heart marks the passage of the emotion." Ariel Bríngnez
Ariel Bríngnez is a saxophonist, composer and arranger who graduated from the University of the Arts of Havana. He has played with Simply Red, Javier Colina, Niña Pastori, Paquito D'Rivera and Ketama, amongst many others. He has two American Grammy awards for his collaboration with Chucho Valdés in the album Tribute to Irakere: Live in Marciac and with Alejandro Sanz for the album El tren de los momentos, as well as a Latin Grammy for Voyager by Iván 'Melon' Lewis.
He has published three works, namely Raíces en colores, with which he won the 2009 Opera Prima award; Experience, and Nostalgia cubana, with which he is currently on tour.
