“These are the fun experiences of Doubt, Diva and Upright, the “Wireless” vocal trio who are assailed by doubts just before facing their first concert. They are three different personalities who will present and represent the different fears chasing them and how to face them. And not just stage fright, but also the fears we face when we're little that follow us throughout our lives: death, the dentist, the dark...”

The “Wireless” will talk to us about values like friendship and tolerance as a solution for overcoming our ghosts. And all of this, with music as the best means of communication.
