Although Chavela Vargas and Concha Buika have a deep friendship, it was Chucho Valdés who thought of the Mallorcan artist of Guinean origin interpreting the songs that are famous thanks to the voice of Chavela Vargas, Costa Rican by birth but Mexican by heart and conviction, as a tribute on the occasion of her 90th birthday. El último trago brings together twelve of the most representative songs made famous by Vargas –"Soledad", "Sombras", "Las ciudades", "Cruz de olvido", "Se me hizo fácil", "Luz de Luna", "Un mundo raro"...– in the rough, sweet, hoarse and sensual voice of Buika, where we can hear her obvious African roots, her gypsy influences and the cosmopolitanism cultivated during years in clubs in New York and Las Vegas. Twelve songs written with truth, sung with purity, capable of transporting you and bringing you back... "One last drink which is never the last because it always precedes the next".
