Diálogo con Navegante. La imagen de una pasión [Dialogue with a Voyager – Image of a Passion] was inspired by the terrible wound caused to Jose Tomas as a result of being gored by a bull in the bullring of Aguascalientes. It recounts an intimate conversation between the bullfighter and the bull. Like any other type of artistic expression, bullfighting is subject to a roller coaster of emotions: excitement, fear, bravery, liberty, suffering and hope.

By means of different scenes the young dancer Triana Ramos submerges us in the different emotions (before, during and after the accident) that inspired this Diálogo con Navegante. The dancer creates the image of the feelings that are expressed in each scene.

Triana Ramos Sánchez (Talavera de la Reina, Toledo, 1997) started dancing at the age of 4. In 2007 she began her studies of Classical Dance, Bolero, Stylized Dance, Folklore and Flamenco at the "Triana" dance school managed by her mother, the dancer from Malaga Carmen Sánchez 'La Chenchá'. She completed the professional degree of Spanish Dance at the age of 15, with an A in the specialty of Flamenco. . When she turned 18 she moved to Seville and entered the Cristina Heeren Foundation, where she continued her training with great teachers and maestros such
