“A very old Carolina Otero, who is alone, ruined and forgotten by the world, recalls her life and her success. Inspired by the main character of Bizet’s opera Carmen, Carolina reinvents herself as an exotic gypsy who goes from one benefactor to the next: they educate her, dress her and teach her to be seductive. When she becomes the star dancer of the Folies-Bergère in Paris, the list of her lovers includes all of European royalty. Trusting her good luck, she tries to seduce Rasputín, a monk and counsellor of the Czar Nicholas II of Russia. She is judged by the latter and sentenced to live alone and impoverished, obliged to abandon gambling, her only love, and to hide in oblivion with the sole company of the ghosts of her past.” Rubén Olmo

The BNE [National Ballet of Spain], under the direction of Rubén Olmo since 2019, is the most important showcase of Spanish dance and all of its styles, performing in principal theatres worldwide with different shows that encompass tradition and the avant-garde.
