'This is Us' / 'Cobra Kai'

Music performed by the composers themselves

The music of 'This is Us', composed by Siddhartha Khosla, is a perfect complement for the series' intergenerational family story. A story and music of ups and downs, of timeouts and farewells. As real as life.

'Cobra Kai' puts us in the shoes of the bad guys of the cult classic 'Karate Kid' to show that the villains are not that bad and the heroes are not that good. Written by the composers Leo Birenberg and Zach Robinson, this music moves from classic and ethnic rhythms inherited from Bill Conti for the original film to the hard rock/heavy metal music associated to the new characters, the members of Cobra Kai. An indispensable concert for all series addicts.
