Nirvana, Queen, The Beatles, Guns N' Roses, Bon Jovi, Oasis... are groups that remain in the collective imagination as the rock classics of recent decades. But...can we imagine their music taken back to the golden era of swing? The Insostenible Big Band proposes an anachronistic musical journey to the music of the most recent mythical rock bands reinterpreted as authentic jazz and swing. This renovated sound of songs like 'Smells Like a Teen Spirit', 'Crazy Little Thing Called Love', 'Come Together', 'Rehab', 'Eye of the Tiger' and 'Wonderwall' is produced by more than twenty musicians on stage, with unsuspected musical nuances for unconditional fans of jazz and rock 'n' roll.
