"Theatre in a pure state. Raw materials: just passion... and two boards (sometimes even without any boards). This phrase is attributed to Lope de Vega and to Cervantes... But whose is it really? The two "masters" flooded theatre with ingenuity and poetry for all time. Both are included in this show, together with others who dance in circles, like heavenly bodies in the firmament. Love is at the core of these dances. Bodies dancing; in addition to Shakespeare and Lope de Vega, there is Saint John of the Cross, Saint Teresa of Jesus, Cervantes, Quevedo, Fray Luis de León, Saint Francis of Assisi and the "blood of a rose".
